To ensure that each Group member company, like individuals, can grow through continual learning, discussions, and improvement while securing and demonstrating independence and autonomy, individual diversity, and flexibility to adapt to external changes and accept differences, the Company Board of Directors considers it essential not only to understand and carry out the intent of the Corporate Governance Code but also to continually assess, improve, and build the Company's corporate governance. The Company Board of Directors has established the Basic Policy on Corporate Governance based on the five fundamental principles described in the Corporate Governance Code to fulfill its responsibilities while responding to the expectations of shareholders and other stakeholders.

3. Policies and procedures for decisions on remuneration of Directors and core management

The Board of Directors makes decisions on the remuneration for Company Directors and Executive Officers based on deliberations and reporting by the remuneration advisory committee taking into consideration individual positions and contributions to business performance. In its 13th Regular General Meeting of Shareholders held on March 26, 2019, the Company resolved to adopt a share-based remuneration program linked to medium- to long-term performance (hereinafter "Program") to replace the existing stock-option program. Policies and procedures for decisions on remuneration of directors in the POLA ORBIS Group following the adoption of this Program are outlined below.

(1) Basic views

The POLA ORBIS Group considers executive remuneration to be an important means of realizing the sustained growth of the Group and increases in corporate value over the medium to long term. As the Group holding company, the Company makes clear the roles and responsibilities in execution of their individual responsibilities for the Company directors and other executives, whose main duties are to make decisions on Group management as a whole and to supervise business execution, and the directors of subsidiaries to which the Company delegates business execution authority. Executive remuneration is based on the responsibility for business performance and other results in relevant areas of business execution and serves as strong motivation for the achievement of results over not only the short term but the medium and long terms as well. In addition, executive remuneration is oriented toward further sharing of gains with shareholders by making clear its linkage to share prices.

(2) Remuneration levels

Remuneration levels are set in light of the scale of individual roles and responsibilities, through consideration of the POLA ORBIS Group's business conditions and competitive strengths in external markets, and comparison with firms in the same industries or of the same size both in Japan and around the world.

(3) Remuneration structure

The POLA ORBIS Group's executive remuneration (excluding outside directors) consists of a fixed basic component and variable annual bonuses and a performance-linked share-based component. Remuneration for outside directors consists of a fixed basic component and a non-performance-linked share-based component. Remuneration for corporate auditors consists only of a fixed basic component.

The share of executive remuneration accounted for by variable remuneration is set within the range 40% to 50% depending on the job grade of the individual executive. The variable remuneration of annual bonuses varies within the range of 0% to 200% depending on such factors as the Group's achievement of business performance targets for the fiscal year, while that of the performance-linked share-based component varies within the range of 0% to 200% depending on such factors as the POLA ORBIS Group's achievement of business performance targets in the medium-term management plan and other targets.

(4) Executive remuneration decision-making process

To ensure objectivity and transparency in the executive remuneration decision-making process, the Company has established a remuneration advisory committee wherein the majority of the membership consists of outside directors to serve as a voluntary advisory body to the Board of Directors. Decisions on the POLA ORBIS Group's executive remuneration are made by the Board of Directors within the scope of the remuneration limits approved at the General Meeting of Shareholders based on deliberations and reporting by the remuneration advisory committee.

4. Nomination of candidates for directors and corporate auditors and appointment and dismissal of the CEO and core management

Human resources chosen as Group core management executives are those who are highly familiar with the management and businesses of the Group companies and have the ability to contribute to the Group's sustained growth by performing their responsibilities for Group management or businesses and implementing appropriate reforms and innovations, while also demonstrating strengths in executive competencies. The Company judges the independence of outside executives based not only on the term of office or period with an organization but also considers effective independence to be an important consideration. The Board of Directors has established policies employed, in principle, with regard to terms of office or periods with an organization when nominating candidates for outside executives, and decisions are made through careful deliberation.

[Supplemental Principle 4-11(1): Views on the balance, diversity, and size of the Board of Directors in light of its overall knowledge, experience, and abilities]

The Board of Directors consists of directors with wide-ranging points of view and abundant experience and specialization, and the education and grounding to be able to reflect these in Company management through flexible thinking. The Company considers it vital to secure an appropriate balance among such knowledge, experience, skills, and other properties.

In light of the Company's recognition of the importance of realizing a sound balance that enables both appropriate decision-making and swift and dynamic business execution based on overall consideration of the scale of the Group's businesses and the Group executive structure in which execution authority is delegated, it has been decided that the appropriate numbers of Directors and Corporate Auditors at this time are up to ten directors and up to five corporate auditors. The current organization consists of eight directors (three outside directors) and three corporate auditors (two outside corporate auditors).

The Company has established a policy on selection of candidates for outside directors based on a recognition of the importance of business administration experience in fields other than those in which the Company operates and reflection of high levels of specialization and knowledge in the Company's management, as independent members of the Board of Directors who can contribute more diverse and multifaceted perspectives in addition to appropriate participation and advising.

Corporate auditors and outside corporate auditors consist of full-time corporate auditors who possess outstanding abilities to develop auditing environments and collect information from within the Company and are tasked with monitoring and verifying the states of development and operation of internal controls systems on a daily basis to ensure the efficacy of auditing and outside corporate auditors who possess high levels of knowledge in the fields of finance, accounting, the law, and internal controls.

In addition, as a group of companies engaging mainly in the cosmetics business, the Group recognizes the importance of reflecting the ideas and values of women in important decision-making by the Board of Directors. For this reason, it considers the proactive appointment of women directors to be important.

Decisions on the nomination of candidate directors and appointment of core management are made by the Board of Directors following deliberation in the voluntary nomination advisory committee, based on various policies established by the Board of Directors.

[Supplemental Principle 4-11(2): Concurrent positions of Directors and Corporate Auditors]

Other than outside directors and outside corporate auditors, no directors or corporate auditors serve concurrently as executives of other listed companies.

In light of the importance of ensuring the ability to devote the necessary time and labor to performance of their duties, a limit is set, in principle, on the number of other listed companies at which outside directors and outside corporate auditors may serve concurrently as executives, and this is used as a requirement in the candidate selection process.

In addition, the Company's Board of Directors' Rules require the approval of the Company Board of Directors for appointment as a director of another company.

The state of concurrent positions is disclosed annually in the notice of convocation of the general meeting of shareholders, Securities Report, Corporate Report, and other documents.

[Supplemental Principle 4-11(3): Analysis and evaluation of the efficacy of the Board of Directors as a whole]

1. Evaluation methods and processes

The significance behind evaluating the effectiveness of the Board of Directors is, we believe, to raise management quality and corporate value even higher by identifying issues at the Board of Directors and appropriately dealing with such issues to solve them.

With this in mind, we have pursued an approach that takes the evaluation process beyond self-evaluation by members of the Board of Directors to include an overall view based on evaluation and analysis of the directors' effectiveness from objective perspectives. The basic policy is for the board itself to apply the results gained through evaluation.

In accordance with this policy, we have turned to third-party organizations with expertise in evaluating a board of directors' effectiveness to conduct a preliminary interview with the chairperson of the board, create a questionnaire and gather responses, then hold separate interviews with all directors and corporate auditors based on questionnaire results since fiscal 2017. During fiscal 2020, in consideration of the COVID-19 pandemic, these were conducted through the format of written questionnaires instead of individual interviews.

Introducing into the evaluation process third-party organizations, which have nothing to gain from the Board of Directors, ensures anonymity, elicits frank comments and preserves objectivity in evaluation results. To complement the third-party evaluation, we also take the original approach of utilizing evaluations by employees who have completed in-house programs such as the Top Management Development Program. These employees are selected to attend executive meetings as observers or interview members of the Board of Directors. This approach not only lends an employee perspective to evaluations but also provides a valuable opportunity to develop people with management potential. Evaluation results from all sources are compiled and passed to the Board of Directors. The Board of Directors then analyzes and verifies the content, works toward a shared understanding of inherent strengths and issues requiring attention, and advances concrete action plans aimed at addressing such issues. In the future as well, the efficacy of the Board of Directors will be evaluated at the end of each fiscal year based on the above process.

2. Evaluation components and perspectives

Evaluations are made from the following perspectives:

- (1) Composition and governance structure of the Board of Directors
- (2) Management of the Board of Directors
- (3) Support structures for the Board of Directors
- (4) State of participation in the Board of Directors
- (5) Matters related to nomination and remuneration of directors
- (6) Board of Corporate Auditors
- (7) Discussion of management strategies
- (8) Risk-management structure of the Board of Directors
- (9) Dialog with shareholders
- (10) Initiatives toward the long-term vision

3. Summary of analysis and evaluation results

The following are evaluation results and the outcome of discussions in Board of Directors' meetings.

<Points rated highly>

The following points were viewed as demonstrating the Board of Directors' high level of effectiveness. The board will strive to maintain and enhance these points.

The state of improvements on the main issues identified last year is summarized below.

- (1) Strengthening of involvement in Company subsidiaries

Efforts were made to enhance involvement in the boards of directors of subsidiaries and the business planning processes and improve governance. Since the need was recognized to enhance Company leadership further in areas, such as issues to be addressed across the entire Group and structural reforms at individual subsidiaries, it will continue to be addressed as a management topic.

- (2) Strengthening structures for review of important matters and management after such review

Efforts were made to enhance structures for deliberation of priority topics and management following such deliberation by increasing opportunities and time for deliberation by the Board on priority topics on which such deliberation should be focused from a Group perspective and increasing opportunities to check on the state of progress following such deliberation.

[4-14(2): Training Policy]

Through continual improvement of skills, the Directors and core management are subjected to self-evaluations and external evaluations of executive competencies for purposes of fulfilling their responsibilities. They formulate and implement action plans based on this evaluation and, as necessary, implement executive coaching programs.

Efforts are made to help newly appointed executives understand their roles and responsibilities through explaining to them their expected roles and legal responsibilities upon appointment.

For newly appointed outside directors and outside corporate auditors, in addition to their expected roles, matters explained to them upon appointment also include the POLA ORBIS Group's management strategies and management plans, the state of management and business environments of individual Group companies, and other management issues. These are explained by the executives responsible and the General Planning Office to ensure an understanding of these topics.

[Principle 5-1: Policies related to dialog with shareholders]

The Company considers proactive dialog with shareholders and investors and appropriately reflecting the opinions obtained from such dialog in management to be important topics for purpose of sustainable growth and medium- to long-term increases in corporate value. Based on this recognition, it has established as a fundamental policy of dialog with shareholders and investors by carrying out constructive dialog with stakeholders through PR and IR activities, and increasing their efficacy, and it implements the following activities accordingly.

2. Efforts to ensure the efficacy of dialog

- (1) Opportunities are available for the representative director to speak with investors in Japan every half-year and with overseas investors twice a year to explain in person and exchange opinions on business strategies, management policies, as well as policies and efforts on non-financial targets, such as ESG goals. These efforts are intended to increase investor engagement and the efficacy of dialogs.
- (2) Efforts are made to enhance dialog and make it more effective through communication of information suited to individual interests, through means such as quantification of various types of information and provision of information on products, and through proactive dialog engaged in by directors of important operating companies (Group executives).

- (3) As a means of dialog other than individual meetings, briefings, small meetings on specific themes, facility tours, and other activities are conducted by the representative director or the directors responsible during the briefings on quarterly settlement of accounts. In addition, regular opportunities for dialog with overseas investors are provided through conferences and other activities.
- (4) The director responsible for IR reports regularly to the Group Managerial Meeting on the views and concerns of shareholders and investors ascertained through dialog, and these are reflected in the processes of formulating management plans, capital policies, etc., to work for increasing the efficacy of the dialog.

In addition, periodic meetings are held among outside directors only, to enhance the sharing of information and opinions among them.

2. Matters on Functions of Business Execution, Auditing, Oversight, Nomination and Remuneration Decisions (Overview of Current Corporate Governance System) Updated

(1) Board of Directors and executive structure

The Board of Directors consists of eight directors, three of whom are outside directors.

The Board bears responsibility for achievement of Group business performance and is authorized to supervise subsidiaries and make decisions for the Group on important matters.

The Board of Directors meets monthly to make resolutions and reports regarding important matters related to management, such as results of analysis of differences between budgeted and actual figures for the month, in addition to matters as prescribed in laws, regulations, and the Articles of Association. Outside directors participate in meetings of the Board of Directors from an independent perspective and supervise management from broad-ranging points of view based on their abundant experience and knowledge.

(2) The Board of Corporate Auditors and Corporate Auditors

The Board of Corporate Auditors consists of three corporate auditors of whom two are outside corporate auditors. Each corporate auditor attends important meetings, such as Group managerial meetings, as well as the General Meetings of Shareholders and Board of Directors meetings, as well as receiving reports from directors, employees, and the accounting auditor, among other activities involved in its supervision of the business execution of directors.

(3) Group Managerial Meeting

Membership in the Group managerial meeting consists of Company directors and the full-time corporate auditor as well as subsidiary presidents, directors, and others chosen for membership through resolutions of the Company Board of Directors, and it deliberates and receives reports on important matters related to the Company and subsidiaries.

(4) Internal audit section

The Company has established the Internal Audit Office as its internal audit section. The Internal Audit Office is separated from the business execution line as an organization under the direct jurisdiction of the representative director and president. It strives to realize highly effective internal auditing in order to contribute to the sound and appropriate management of the Company and Group companies. Specifically, through on-site audits of individual companies and sections, it evaluates mainly whether or not systems are in place that are adequately prepared for possible business risks and recommends improvements, as well as cooperating in auditing by the corporate auditors and the accounting auditor, to strive to implement auditing efficiently.

(5) Accounting auditor

The Company undergoes accounting audits under an auditing agreement concluded between the Company and Ernst & Young ShinNihon LLC. As described above, the efficacy of auditing is ensured and an effective auditing structure achieved through mutual cooperation among individual agencies, sections, and other organizations in the Company. ### (6) Voluntary committees

In order to promote clarification of the roles and responsibilities of management and execution in the Group's management structure and improve governance, voluntary advisory committees have been established on the nomination of directors, appointment of executive officers, remuneration, and other matters. Outside directors make up majorities of the memberships of these voluntary advisory committees, and they deliberate on important subjects related to nomination of directors, appointment of executive officers, remuneration, and other matters and report to the Board of Directors on the results of their deliberation. The membership of this voluntary appointment advisory committee and compensation advisory committee changes for individual topics of deliberation, and it also deliberates on nomination and compensation of management in Company subsidiaries and sub-subsidiaries.

3. Reasons for Adoption of Current Corporate Governance System

3. Measures to Ensure Due Respect for Stakeholders

Updated

	Supplementary Explanations
Stipulation of Internal Rules for Respecting the Position of Stakeholders	The Group has established the POLA ORBIS Group Code of Conduct and Compliance Book, covering various facets of responsible corporate activity, including legal compliance, environmental protection, and shareholder relations. These describe the need to respect all stakeholders. All employees submit a written pledge to abide by these rules.
Implementation of Environmental Activities, CSR Activities etc.	The Company has established Corporate Communications Office, which functions to promote CSR in the Company, and the CSR Committee (chaired by the Company's director responsible for CSR), whose membership consists of presidents and directors of Group member companies. Group companies also establish CSR offices or persons responsible for promotion of CSR, in accordance with the sizes of their organizations, as they develop structures for promoting CSR in their own organizations. Specifically, three areas have been established under which initiatives are implemented: fundamental CSR, which consists of the basic activities of compliance with laws, regulations, and social ethics and appropriate disclosure of information; business CSR, which consists of efforts for cooperation with not only customers but a wide range of stakeholders through the main business activities, as well as invigorating the community, increasing employee satisfaction, and lessening the environmental impact (e.g., through development of eco-friendly products); and selective CSR, which involves contributing to society through cultural activities (e.g., support for traditional culture and the arts) and environmental-protection activities (e.g., recycling and tree planting). In addition, the materiality for sustainability is established in the five areas of improving QOL through advanced technologies and services; regional revitalization; culture, art, and design; opportunities for human resources to thrive; and the environment. Non-financial activity goals for 2029 have been established, which the entire Group is striving to achieve, and the results of these activities are reported annually on the website and in reports. Environmental targets have been linked to executive compensation beginning in 2020, and they will be linked to the medium- to long-term incentives for Group company executives beginning in 2021. In addition, the Group CSR Committee and the CSR offices of individual companies under its jurisdiction cooperate across the Group to address the priority topic of risks related to strategic and business activities, implementing improvement measures targeting individual topics. Furthermore, executives and employees of all Group companies are made aware of these efforts through distribution of the Code of Conduct and Compliance Book, and educational activities are conducted each year through CSR seminars, e-learning, and other means to increase knowledge and awareness of compliance. In addition, a Group-wide helpline has been established to encourage provision of information on potential compliance issues by executives, employees, and trading partners, and a whistleblowing hotline was established in 2019 for business partners.

Development of Policies on Information Provision to Stakeholders	A Disclosure Policy has been established as a fundamental policy, and a wide range of information is provided to stakeholders through the website and other media.
Other	1. Human-resources development/diversity initiatives The Group considers its human resources to be its most important asset. As a unique competency, the Company defined Bi-i-shiki (Esthetic Sense) as the act of not being satisfied with things as they are and constantly striving to create something new based on intellectual curiosity in a time of dramatic change. The Company has adopted a system of internal training consisting of training sessions for the future provided for younger employees and business reform classes for middle managers. It is the president's aim through this system to accelerate business growth by training employees to realize innovation. Furthermore, the Human Resources Development Committee was established in 2019 to advance development of management human resources over the medium to long term, and it selects candidates from across the Group and advances individual training programs. In addition, as a diversity initiative the Company proactively supports women's career success. Since its founding, the Group has supported women's advancement in society through the cosmetics business in ways suited to the changing times. Based on this corporate culture built up over time since its founding, the Company is making progress on building an environment characterized by increasing opportunities for motivated and capable women employees to thrive and in which employees can demonstrate their own abilities to the fullest regardless of gender through means that include promotion to managerial and executive positions. These are intended to enable the Company to establish a position as a company that promotes women's success as professionals. Efforts such as these are connected to enabling women to build better careers, and the percentage of managerial positions held by women Group-wide, including overseas units, is 46.9%, while the figure in Japan has increased substantially from 13.6% in 2007, when the holding-company organization was adopted, to 30.4% in 2020. Within a workplace culture that respects women's views, women are demonstrating their abilities to a considerable extent in various ways, including developing products that reflect customers' points of view and enhancing the services we provide. Spurred by participation in the 30% Club Japan, the Group has set the targets of increasing percentage of women managers to at least 50% and the percentage of women executives to up to 50% Group-wide by 2029.

	2. Proactive efforts to support the raising of children (earning Kurumin certification) As part of its efforts to support women's careers in line with their life stages, the Group proactively provides support for the raising of children. It offers programs suitable to diverse ways of working, including shortened working hours and childcare flextime (for those caring for children through the end of March in their third-grade school year) from which employees can choose depending on their childcare circumstances. For example, POLA INC. implements measures, such as efforts that include training for managers on support of work-life balance and meetings held with managers before taking leave and before returning to work, creating structures to support understanding throughout the workplace of the need to balance work and childcare after returning from leave, and providing opportunities for employees to think about their career paths. Efforts such as these have helped the Group to achieve a high percentage of employees who return to work after taking childcare leave: 85% (in FY 2020). 3. Creating workplaces where people with disabilities can work with peace of mind The Group strives to realize workplaces where people with disabilities can work with peace of mind. Out of consideration for employees who find it difficult to commute into urban centers, POLA INC., and ORBIS Inc. have opened satellite offices in suburban locations. Through these, the companies strive to provide workplaces in which people can demonstrate their abilities to the maximum, not only by easing the burden of commuting but also by employing barrier-free office designs and office equipment based on universal design principles. In addition, POLA ORBIS HOLDINGS INC. and ACRO INC. accept trainees from special needs schools attended by students with mental disabilities and help them secure employment with standard businesses. Group e-learning programs incorporate captioning and transcripts of audio materials for employees with hearing impairments. As a result of these efforts, as of January 2021, the Group employed 70 employees with disabilities. Group-wide efforts will continue in the future to build workplaces where every employee can demonstrate his or her abilities to the maximum extent, regardless of disability status. 4. Health management initiatives (inclusion in the Excellent Health and Productivity Management Corporation 2021)

	Considering the good health of employees to be the source of creating new value as well as the cornerstone of the Group's sustained growth, the Group has formulated the POLA ORBIS Group Health Management Declaration, under which it promotes the improvement of employees' health. These activities have earned inclusion under the Excellent Health and Productivity Management Corporation 2020 (Large Enterprises Category) established by the Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare. 5. Improving quality of life (QOL) In R&amp;D pursuits, resources are concentrated into skincare themes. We actively announce our results at academic gatherings, and the Group has captured the highest award six times at (International Federation of Societies of Cosmetic Chemists (IFSCC) events, including interim conferences. Products that successfully utilize research results not only help the skin but also relieve stress and give customers greater confidence in face-to-face interaction. We established the Multiple Intelligence Research Center and the Frontier Research Center in 2018, to strengthen efforts to pursue research into new possibilities for cosmetics going beyond skin-related applications. We also are seeking seeds of new value, not limited to cosmetics, as we aim to help improve QOL by delivering brand new technologies to customers. Improving QOL through advanced technologies and services is one of the five areas of the Group's materiality for sustainability. 6. Regional Revitalization Since our founding, we have provided a broad range of employment opportunities for women. This remains unchanged today, more than 80 years later, and today we hold recruitment forums across Japan not only to provide information on jobs with the Group but also to offer seminars and other opportunities to learn for women seeking their own jobs or career changes. In addition, in 2017 POLA INC., concluded a comprehensive cooperation agreement with Akita Prefecture, which is experiencing an outflow of population combined with low birth rates and an aging society. Under this agreement, it provides support for finding employment and seeks to help realize the vision of Binokuni (Beautiful Place) Akita. In 2018, a line of collaborative accessories made using traditional crafts was announced. Furthermore, comprehensive cooperation agreements were concluded with the city of Kitakyushu (in Fukuoka Prefecture) and the city of Semboku (in

	Akita Prefecture) in 2018 and with the city of Fuji (in Shizuoka Prefecture) in 2019. Regional revitalization is one of the five areas of the Group's materiality for sustainability. 7. Human-rights initiatives The Group Human Rights Due Diligence Rules were established to realize business activities reflecting concern for human rights throughout the value chain. In June, the Company implemented due diligence and identified topics of concern regarding Group employees on which improvements now are being made. Supplier CSR surveys check on working conditions, health and safety, and human-rights initiatives, and on-site auditing is conducted as necessary. Where needed, improvements are made together with business partners.

IV. Matters Related to the Internal Control System

1. Basic Views on Internal Control System and the Progress of System Development

Basically, the Company considers internal controls to be a process executed by all members of the organization to achieve the four corporate objectives of business efficacy and efficiency, reliable financial reports, business activities compliant with laws, regulations, and the preservation of assets (Business Accounting Council, Standards on Evaluation and Auditing of Internal Controls Related to Financial Reporting). Policies related to the development of internal controls systems approved by the Board of Directors are outlined below.

a. Systems for ensuring the efficient execution of duties of Directors of the Company and Group companies In accordance with the Board of Directors Rules, the Board of Directors meets at least once a month and at other times as necessary. Directors' duties are performed in accordance with the Job Authority Rules and the Rules on Division of Responsibilities, and appropriate review, decision-making, and reporting procedures are carried out based on these rules as well as the Group Managerial Meeting Rules, the Affiliate Management Rules, the Budget Management Rules, the Medium-term Management Plan Rules, and other rules. Furthermore, important matters related to internal controls are subjected to appropriate deliberation and decision-making by the Board of Directors. For important matters related to compliance, risk management, or CSR, the Group CSR Committee carries out appropriate deliberation, and decision-making procedures are conducted based on the Job Authority Rules.

b. Systems related to retention and control of information concerning the execution of duties of Directors
Based on the Document Control Rules, the minutes of the Board of Directors, minutes of deliberations in various meetings, and similar information related to the execution of duties of Directors are recorded in paper or electronic form (hereinafter "documents etc.") and retained appropriately. Any requests from Directors or Corporate Auditors to view these documents etc. are responded to swiftly.

c. Rules and other systems related to management of risks of losses to the Company and Group companies
The CSR Committee has been established under the jurisdiction of the Board of Directors to manage risks related to business activities, including strategic and business risks, across the Group. Each section manages business risks appropriately in accordance with the Risk Management Rules and swiftly organizes a Task Force in accordance with the Crisis Control Rules in response to any emergencies.

d. Measures related to development of compliance systems in the Company and Group companies
The CSR Committee has been established under the jurisdiction of the Board of Directors to manage the compliance structure across the Group. Furthermore, Group companies also establish CSR offices or persons responsible for promotion of CSR in accordance with the sizes of their organizations as they develop structures for promoting compliance in their own organizations. In addition, the Group Code of Conduct (hereinafter "Code of Conduct") is distributed to and publicized among all executives and employees in the Group, and all executives and employees submit written pledges to abide by the Code of Conduct. A Group-wide Helpline also has been set up to encourage provision of information by Executives and employees and to raise knowledge and awareness of compliance appropriately.

e. Measures related to developing structures for ensuring the propriety of operations within Group companies Based on rules such as the Group Managerial Meeting Rules, Affiliate Management Rules, Budget Management Rules, and Medium-term Management Plan Management Rules, important topics, budgets, and medium-term plans of Group companies are subject to prior screening in the Group Managerial Meeting and prior approval or reporting in the Board of Directors. The Group Managerial Meeting endeavors to ensure a thorough understanding of these requirements among all companies, to prevent any omissions. Furthermore, even closer cooperation among Group companies will be implemented in the future, to ensure that the systems under a–d above permeate within Group companies as well.

f. Systems related to employees requested by Corporate Auditors to assist in their duties and the efficacy of instructions to such employees

When Corporate Auditors have requested the assignment of employees to assist in their duties, an appropriate section is assigned as the secretariat office to assist the corporate auditors. Corporate auditors implement measures to ensure the efficacy of instructions to such employees and their independence from the Board of Directors. In addition, a structure has been developed for mutual compensation of auditing activities by strengthening cooperation with the internal auditing section and the accounting auditor as well.

g. Systems for reporting to the corporate auditors by directors and employees of the Company and Group companies and other reports to the corporate auditors

When directors or employees have discovered violations of laws or regulations or matters that could cause significant damage to the Company, they swiftly report them to the corporate auditors. Directors and employees are required to submit reports on business or financial conditions swiftly when so requested by the corporate auditors. Corporate auditors actively take part in meetings of the Board of Directors and other important meetings, striving to obtain reports on business and financial conditions from Directors and employees. In addition, the internal auditing section reports on the results of internal auditing to the corporate auditors as appropriate. Also, the state of use of the Group Helpline, a system for reporting by directors and employees of Group companies to the corporate auditors, is reported to the corporate auditors each month.

h. Other systems for ensuring the efficacy of auditing by Corporate Auditors

Based on the Board of Corporate Auditors Rules, the Board of Corporate Auditors meets at least once a month and at other times as necessary. Corporate auditors actively take part in meetings of the Board of Directors and other important meetings, striving to collect information on subjects such as the state of business and finances. They also cooperate closely with the internal auditing section, taking care to ensure that audits will be effective. Corporate auditors exchange opinions with the representative director, Directors, and the accounting auditor regularly or as needed. In addition, to increase further the efficacy of auditing by the corporate auditors, the costs recognized as necessary in execution of the duties of the corporate auditors are budgeted in advance, and the corporate auditors can receive advances or claim reimbursement after the fact from the Company for any urgent or extraordinary expenditures.

i. Basic views on eliminating antisocial forces and state of development of related measures

As stated in the Code of Conduct, the Group maintains a stance of confrontation with antisocial groups. In addition to establishing a hotline for reporting threats by antisocial forces, the Group also cooperates with local police by joining the national federation on countering organized crime syndicates and local associations on countering organized crime syndicates, as well as collecting information from external sources and proactively participating in training sessions as part of its efforts to exclude thoroughly any contact with antisocial forces. The Group also has prepared a manual on responding to antisocial forces and is publicizing it among employees and others.
