

To all stakeholders,

Notice on Relocation of Head Office

Perseus Proteomics Inc. (The Company) announces that today the Company has resolved the relocation of head office at the board meeting held today. The details are as follows:

1. Reasons for the change

The Company has proactively recruited skilled research members, renewed aged equipment, and installed new equipment for the acceleration of research and development. So far, the Company has increased the laboratory space by renting more floors, however, no new rent space is available at the current head office building. Therefore, the Company has resolved to move to a new head office aiming at conducting research and development for further improvement of the antibody technology and achieving the goals in the business plans.

2. New head office address

30-1 Nihonbashi-hakozakicho, Chuo-ku, Tokyo, JAPAN

3. Date of relocation

July 1, 2023 (plan)

4. Impact on business results

The Company has been studying the costs related to this relocation and will disclose any necessary information immediately after the study.

5. Other

The registered address of the head office will be changed from Meguro-ku to Chuo-ku on condition that partial amendment of the Articles of Incorporation is proposed and approved at the coming 23rd general meeting of shareholders of the Company to be held in June, 2023.
