1. Qualitative Information for the Consolidated Fiscal Year Ended March 31, 2023

(1) Review of Operating Results

Japanese Economy: During the fiscal year under review (from April 1, 2022 to March 31, 2023), the Japanese economy continued to recover led by domestic demand, albeit slowly. Government support measures (comprehensive economic stimulus measures, nationwide incentivization program for travelers, relaxation of entry control for quarantine purposes, etc.) and continued monetary easing underpinned the economy. On the other hand, the slowdown in overseas economies and a decline in household purchasing power due to rising commodity prices caused headwinds.

Looking Abroad: In overseas markets, mainly in Europe and the United States, monetary tightening to suppress price hikes continued, and the economy lost its momentum accordingly. However, in Asia, where inflation was somewhat restrained, the margin of interest rate hikes was moderate, and thus, the slowdown was limited.

Japanese Stock Market: The Nikkei Stock Average, which opened at \(\frac{4}{27}\),600 in April, remained within the range of \(\frac{4}{26}\),000 to \(\frac{4}{28}\),500 throughout the year. In other words, the Japanese stock market had faced pressure that refuses its upward swing. While economic normalization and a lasting low-interest rate environment were positive factors, global interest rate hikes, concerns over an economic recession, and the Bank of Japan's adjustment of its monetary easing policy at the end of the year all restrained the movement toward the upper price. At the end of March, the fiscal year-end, the Nikkei Stock Average reached close to the upper end of its sideways trading range but it fell in reaction to, then, occurring financial instability in Europe and the United States. As a result, it closed the March transaction at \(\frac{4}{28}\),000.

US Stock Market: The Dow Jones Industrial Average, which opened at $34,700 in April, fell below $30,000 in June on the back of interest rate hikes. In August, it recovered temporarily to $34,000, but as optimism waned, it fell below $29,000 by the end of September. On the other hand, stock prices, which turned upward in the expectation of a reduced range of interest rate rises, remained generally firm after the beginning of the year. In March, however, several bank failures in the United States caused turmoil, and the Dow Jones Industrial Average closed at $33,200.

Japanese Bond Market: Long-term interest rates in Japan (10-year government bond yield) started at 0.19% in April and continued to trade in the range between 0.20% and 0.25%. As the Bank of Japan changed the upper limit of long-term interest rates to around 0.50% at the Monetary Policy Meeting held in December, the long-term interest rate briefly rose to 0.57% in January. However, the index closed at 0.35% in March as BOJ Governor Candidate Ueda hinted at a continuation of easing.

US Bond Market: Long-term interest rates in the United States started at a year-end low of 2.34% in April and rose to 3.49% in June but declined to 2.51% in August due to concerns about a U.S. economic recession and expectations that inflation would peak out. However, as the Federal Reserve intensified its tightening stance, the yield rose sharply to 4.33% in October, the highest level for the fiscal year, and bonds prices fell sharply, creating a difficult investment environment. Later, slowing inflation in the United States and the bankruptcy of U.S. regional banks drove up demand for U.S. government bonds, which ended March at 3.46%.

Foreign Exchange Market: The dollar-to-yen exchange rate opened at 1 USD to 121 JPY in April, which was the lowest level for the period. In October, after the U.S. Federal Reserve raised interest rates, the exchange rate reached a new high of 1 USD to 151 JPY. This marked an unprecedented, rapid depreciation of the yen. However, as inflation in the U.S. slowed and expectations of easing by the Bank of Japan grew, the exchange rate fell sharply to 127 JPY in January. In March, it rebounded to 137 JPY, but the March trade ended at 132 JPY caused by the continued depreciation of the dollar due to financial instability.

(4) Basic Policy on Profit Distribution and Dividends for the Current and Next Fiscal Years

The Group's main business is the financial instruments business, and earnings in the financial instruments industry are highly susceptible to market trends. Therefore, the Company's basic policy regarding the distribution of earnings is to make efforts to enhance internal reserves and pay stable and appropriate dividends to shareholders.

The Company's basic policy regarding the number of dividends in each business year is to pay dividends twice a year, an interim dividend and a year-end dividend. Interim and year-end dividends are determined by Board of Directors and General Meeting of Shareholders, respectively.

The Company also provides in its Articles of Incorporation that it may pay interim dividends as prescribed in Article 454, Paragraph 5 of the Companies Act.

As for the year-end dividend for the fiscal year under review, we plan to pay an ordinary dividend of 8 yen per share, and together with the interim dividend, we plan to pay an annual dividend of 16 yen per share. As a result, the consolidated dividends payout ratio for the fiscal year under review was 203.8%.

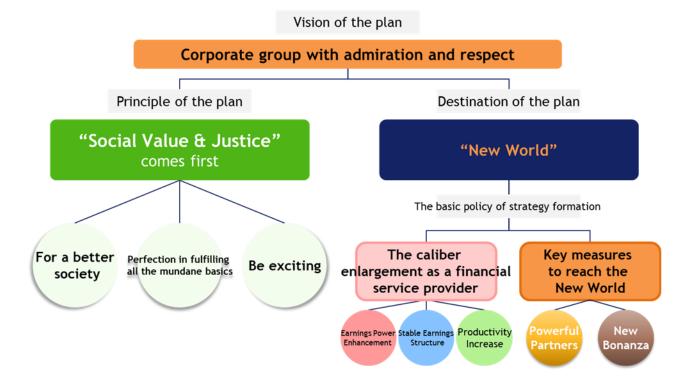

(5) Outlook

The Group's main business is the financial instruments business and its performance is affected by changes in the market environment. As it is difficult to forecast the business performance in light of the characteristics of this business, the Company does not disclose a business performance forecast.

(6) Status of the Medium-term Management Plan

The business environment surrounding the Group is changing drastically. Technologies such as AI and blockchain are becoming increasingly indispensable for business development. At the same time, companies are increasingly required to implement sustainable management in such areas as environmental consideration and how they fulfill their social responsibilities. In Japan's securities business, the business model has changed significantly due to changes in the commission structure, regulatory and institutional reforms, and acceleration of digital transformation (hereinafter "DX"). We also need to shift to a more goal-based approach in designing our business policy, including responding to the new NISA system, contributing to the "Doubling Asset-Based Income Plan", and offering portfolio proposals and solutions. In addition, we need to pay more attention to market trends, such as rising U.S. interest rates and the global spread of financial instability triggered by the bankruptcy of U.S. regional banks. Under these circumstances, the Group has formulated and is promoting the five-year medium-term management plan "Beyond Our Limits" (hereinafter referred to as the "Plan") since April 2022. The plan aims to make the Company a "corporate group with admiration and respect" by taking on the challenge of reaching the "New World" with "Social Value & Justice' comes first" as its action guidelines. In pursuing such a goal, we hoist the core strategic policies that read "The caliber enlargement as a financial service provider" and "Key measures to reach the New World". By "The caliber enlargement as a financial service provider", the Company means to redesign its revenue-generating and cost-spending practices and expand its stable earnings base. By "Key Measures to reach the New World", the Company means to set further focus on collaboration with Powerful Partners (*1) and the creation of a New Bonanza (*2). In the digital field, the Company is providing advanced financial services from our subsidiaries including CHEER Securities Inc. (hereinafter "CHEER") and Tokai Tokyo Digital Platform Co., Ltd. (hereinafter "TTDP") and assisting local communities with their DX promotion processes.

- * 1 Partners such as electric power companies, telecommunications companies, financial institutions, trading companies, real estate, universities, regional banks, and local governments.

As a result, in the consolidated statement of cash flows for the previous fiscal year, 76,809 million yen presented in "Increase (decrease) in other liabilities" under "Cash flows from operating activities" has been reclassified as "Decrease (increase) in trade date accrual" of 70,639 million yen and "Increase (decrease) in other liabilities" of 6,170 million yen.
