ANA to Launch Services to Phnom Penh, Cambodia

Promoting the Introduction of Full-flat Seats in Business Class

TOKYO, January 20, 2016 – In its summer schedule for 2016, ANA will further expand its international network from Narita to strengthen the airport's role as an international hub. In addition to new services on the Narita-Wuhan route from April 28 (announced on December 7, 2015), ANA will launch flights linking Narita and Phnom Penh, the capitol of Cambodia, on September 1. With this new service, Cambodia becomes the eighth country served by ANA in the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN), which is enjoying explosive economic growth. The flights will also become the only direct air service between Japan and Cambodia.

In fiscal 2015, as part of our dual hub strategy in Tokyo, we strengthened our international network and enhanced customer convenience while launching new daily services from Narita/Haneda airports to Houston in the USA, Kuala Lumpur in Malaysia, Brussels in Belgium and Sydney in Australia. Strengthening our dual hub operations helps us meet growing demand at Narita for international transfers between North America and Asia, and at Haneda for international-domestic connections.

We are also expanding full-flat seat service in Business Class. This summer the service will be introduced to Vancouver route and thus will be available on all six European routes and all 10 North American routes. Three Asian flights, including Mumbai, will also be equipped with full-flat seats.

Details of new and increased flight plans are outlined below.

*Flight plans are subject to approval by the relevant authorities. All schedules are subject to change.

International new routes to meet strong demand

Celebrating the 30th anniversary of our first regular international services in 2016, we continue to expand the ANA network for the convenience of our customers.

Our new services to Phnom Penh will meet increasing business travel demand. Companies around the world are eyeing the rapidly emerging Cambodian market, drawn to Phnom Penh as a manufacturing center and the country as a high-potential market for their products and services. This year also marks the 60th anniversary of the conclusion of a friendship treaty between Japan and Cambodia. By launching the first direct flights from Japan, ANA aims to contribute to the further development of friendly relations and bring the world closer to the dynamic Cambodia market.

Flights to Wuhan, the largest city in central China, will also serve growing business travel demand linked to Japanese companies advancing their presence in the region and growing demand for travel to Japan by Chinese tourists.
