A-15 JS Progres Building

■Improved image through renewal of entrance

In response to the tenants' view that "the entrance looks dark" pointed out in the tenant questionnaire, the entrance hall underwent renewal works to update its image: review of the lighting plan, repainting of the ceiling and walls, and replacement of the carpet at the waiting space

■Increase in parking lots to meet tenants' needs, resulting in earnings improvement

As a potential tenant requested more than 10 plane parking lots, 10 parking spaces were newly developed through the layout change. The leasing contract was executed with such tenant as preconditions were cleared. This work resulted in a rise in the occupancy rate and an increase in annual revenues by 2.4 million JPY

The occupancy rate of the property has recovered to 100% as of the end of December 2016 thanks to the above works, after hitting the bottom at 60.7% when five floors (1,426 tsubo in total) were unoccupied.

A-30 FORECAST Shinagawa

It turned out that, as a result of the hearing from the broker, the property had weak points about a small number of restroom stalls and a lack of a smoking area.

■ Works for renewal of restrooms

Works for installation of additional stalls and other renewal plans in both male/female restrooms were implemented, intended to improve tenant satisfaction with improved work environment and to enhance competitiveness of the property

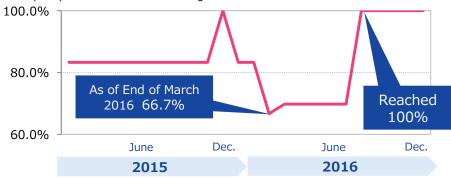

■ New establishment of smoking area

A smoking area was newly established on the rooftop, with consideration for not impairing amenities of non-smokers, by drawing on advice from Japan Tobacco, Inc.

The occupancy rate of the property has recovered to 100% as of the end of September 2016 thanks to the above works, after hitting the bottom at 66.7% when two floors (217.66 tsubo in total) were unoccupied.

Updated image and floor partition through Renewal of EV Hall

As the marketing activities intended to grasp tenants' needs in the area under a leasing manager revealed a lot of needs from foreign-affiliated companies that want to move into a high-spec building with the floor area of about 30 tsubo, we intended to enhance competitiveness of the property by addressing such needs.

The occupancy rate was improved to 89.5% as of the end of December 2016 and is expected to reach 100% as of the end of February 2017, thanks to the above works based on the correct understanding of needs, after hitting the bottom at 48.5% when three floors were unoccupied

A-5 FORECAST Ichigaya

Effective use of dead space by taking advantage of the law amendment

As the restrictions on the floor-area ratio were eased under the amended Building Standards Act, storage rooms for residents were newly established at a dead space in the upper residential floors (space on top of the elevator shaft). As many of the residential units of this property target single-person households and are occupied by persons of hobbies, demand for storage space is expected. The storage rooms will contribute to an improvement in tenant satisfaction and competitiveness of the property in future leasing activities. An increase in annual revenues by approximately 1 million yen is expected due to the establishment of the storage rooms.

《Inside of new storage room》

Point of EM

Revitalization of dead space encouraged by the law amendment

The number of storage rooms is consciously curbed for the purpose of providing convenience to residents and in consideration of the grade of the building.

Also, we managed to save the construction cost significantly by giving due consideration to how to extend and partition the floor.

■ Renewal works on the high-rent units on the upper floors

The high-rent units on the top floors of this property have larger floor space and suffer from longer vacancy periods.

It was found after the marketing activities that highrent units on upper floors tend to attract residents focusing on sophisticated designs. We implemented the renewal works on these unites to change wall materials in a living room into design walls and install elaborated glass blocks in the entrance door, with an aim to enhance competitiveness of the property.

The units are now rented after the lease contracts were executed at the same time with the completion of the renewal works.

The high occupancy rate of 98.0% was maintained as of the end of December 2016, thanks to the above works.

《Living room with design wall materials installed》

«Entrance admitting light through glass blocks»

All the more because the unit is located at the top floor, a brighter space is needed. Glass blocks are installed in the front door of the entrance, which otherwise is tend to be a closed space, for the purpose of getting sunlight, while design wall materials are installed in the living room where family members gather to create a warm and bright atmosphere.
