Updated

The Company has an advisor program but currently does not have anyone serving as an advisor.

At a November 2017 Board of Directors meeting, the Company revised its advisor program by discontinuing the practice of automatically appointing all retired corporate officers as advisors. As a general rule, it now appoints retired corporate officers as advisors for a one-year term only if the retired corporate officer is appointed to perform specific duties for the Company. However, said duties are limited to providing advice as a former senior executive or performing specific, individually delegated duties. Retired corporate officers are not involved in any management decision-making.

2. Matters Relating to Functions for Business Execution, Auditing and Oversight, Nomination, Remuneration Decisions, etc. (Outline of the current corporate governance system)

Updated

The Company has twelve directors, four of whom are outside directors. The Company has adopted the Audit & Supervisory Board system for auditing of directors' execution of duties, which is conducted by five Audit & Supervisory Board members elected at the General Meeting of Shareholders, three of whom are outside Audit & Supervisory Board members.

The Company manages its consolidated subsidiaries through a divisional system. It currently has seven operating divisions, an Administrative Division and other organizational units that report directly to vice presidents. Each product division is headed by an executive officer appointed as a chief division officer. Chief division officers practice expeditious management in close contact with frontline personnel. They also expeditiously report and share information through Operating Committee meetings.

The Company has introduced an executive officer system and appoints executive officers to focus exclusively on management of its divisions while directors focus on company-wide management. This division of management responsibilities is intended to expedite decision-making and improve management efficiency.

In addition, through separation of corporate-level management (directors) and performance of duties at divisions (executive officers), the Company strengthens the Board of Director's function of supervising the status of performance of duties and promotes clarification of authority and responsibilities and strengthening of internal control.

In addition, the Company has established Corporate Management Committees for discussion of corporate-level cross-organizational issues in which directors and executive officers deliberate each management issue, consulting with the Board of Directors as necessary.

3. Reason for Selection of the Current Corporate Governance System

The system of a Company with an Audit & Supervisory Board is the foundation of the Company's corporate governance. The Company has adopted the current corporate governance system to ensure management soundness by means of the following.

- Strengthening of appropriate decision-making and management oversight, reflecting the expert and objective perspective of outside directors
- Strengthening of auditing and checking of the performance of duties by directors from an expert perspective and shareholders' perspective by outside Audit & Supervisory Board members
- Greater speed and efficiency in decision-making through an executive officer system
