Details of Nissan Shatai's corporate governance policies and procedures are set out below.

I. Fundamental Corporate Governance Policies and Basic Information on Capital Structure, Corporate Attributes, and Other Matters

1. Fundamental Policies

To continually enhance corporate value, we believe it is vital for management to be clearly accountable, to disclose information to shareholders and other stakeholders in a timely and appropriate manner, and further, to maintain transparency and proper execution of business operations by establishing internal control systems. Nissan Shatai further enhances our corporate governance based on principles of the Corporate Governance Code.

Reasons for not taking actions in line with principles of the Corporate Governance Code

Supplementary Principle 1-2-4 – Use of electronic voting platform for shareholders

At this time, we have no plans for establishing a platform for electronic voting by shareholders. We will continue to study necessity of the use of this platform while taking into consideration the composition of shareholders and other items. Meanwhile, we will send convocation notice for a general shareholders meeting earlier and post the notice on our website in Japanese and English earlier in order to give shareholders more time to determine how to vote on proposals.

Supplementary Principle 4-1-3 – Succession plan for the Chief Executive Officer

The policy for the appointment of the next Chief Executive Officer is to select an individual who has an extensive knowledge of the automobile industry and the ability to bring about change, translate words into actions, and other characteristics required of a manager. The Chief Executive Officer selects candidates and the Board of Directors discusses the nominations and makes a decision. We will consider measures, including the establishment of an advisory committee, for the purpose of increasing the objectivity and transparency of the selection of Chief Executive Officer candidates.

Supplementary Principle 4-10-1 – Use of optional approach

Nissan Shatai does not have a Nominations Committee, Remuneration Committee or other advisory committees. We will consider appropriate measures, including the establishment of advisory committees based on our view of the proper role of independent outside directors regarding nominations, remuneration and other matters concerning senior managements and directors.

Supplementary Principle 4-11 – Preconditions for Board of Directors and Board of Statutory Auditors effectiveness

Nissan Shatai has six directors. Four directors are internal directors, who are individuals with specialized knowledge about their respective areas of responsibility, including experience with overseas operations, and experience of company management. Two directors are independent outside directors who have extensive knowledge and experience as senior executives outside the automobile industry. We believe that this composition is suitable with respect to achieving both the diversity and proper size of the Board of Directors. Nissan Shatai believes that measures concerning gender diversity should be further studied.

Disclosure based on principles of the Corporate Governance Code (Updated)

Principle 1-4 – Cross-shareholdings

Nissan Shatai holds no listed stocks as cross-shareholdings.

Principle 1-7 – Related party transactions

We use procedures prescribed in the Companies Act for transactions with one or more directors having a conflict of interests. Transaction prices for automobile to the parent company are determined by negotiations that take into account the total cost of manufacturing. Nissan Shatai's Board of Directors confirms the process and contents of these negotiations.

Principle 2-6 – Roles of corporate pension funds as asset owners

Nissan Shatai outsources the specific management of assets in the corporate pension funds to several asset management firms and the company's accounting section monitors the performance of these firms. There is a Corporate Pension Fund Operations Oversight Committee that includes labor union representation and managers at Nissan Shatai involved with human resources, labor relations, and finance and accounting. On a regular basis, this committee receives reports on the results of monitoring of asset management performance, confirms suitability of the composition of assets, asset management performance and other matters, evaluates the asset management firms and performs other tasks on a regular basis. The objectives are to prevent conflicts of interest between pension funds beneficiaries and Nissan Shatai and to ensure the soundness of pension funds asset management. In addition, to ensure that this framework functions properly, people with the necessary experience and characteristics are assigned to these activities and there are training programs for these people.
